

Becoming a Certified Scrum Product Owner®

Congratulations!

You just completed the two-day CSPO™ course.

Now become certified by Scrum Alliance®.

Log in to your Scrum Alliance account.

Your instructor will send us your information and notify us that you have successfully completed your CSPO training. When we receive it, we'll send you a welcome email with instructions for logging in to your Scrum Alliance account and accepting your CSPO license.

Accept your license agreement.

In your welcome email, you will receive a link to the Scrum Alliance website where you can log in and accept your license. After you log in, follow these steps:

1. Once logged in, click on "My Account" (upper right-hand area of your screen, select Dashboard from the dropdown).
2. Look for section labeled "Action."
3. Click on "Accept License for Pending..."
4. Follow the directions to accept your license.

Once you have followed these steps, your account should be up to date.
Your certification is valid for two years.

Update your Scrum Alliance online profile.

Once you have accepted your license, you can print your CSPO certificate and update your membership profile.

Follow these steps to print your certificate:

1. Click on "My Account" (Upper right-hand area of your screen, select Dashboard from the dropdown)
2. Look for section labeled "Action."
3. Click on "Print Certificate(s)."

You can keep your Scrum Alliance profile public or make it private. To manage your profile settings, click on "Edit Profile" from your dashboard and select the settings that best suit you.

Get involved.

We're committed to providing you ACE – Advocacy, Community, and Education – throughout your Scrum journey. And that works best when you're involved. Explore the Scrum Alliance site.

Become active in our online community.

- Read expert blogs on Spotlight.
- Comment on member-submitted articles, or submit an article of your own.
- Sign up for a local user group.
- Register for the next Global Scrum Gathering®.

With Scrum Alliance, you have many resources, groups, and colleagues to help you succeed using Scrum. Take advantage of them! Welcome to the Community!